Foreword

Loyalty is certainly one of the noblest virtues man can possess.

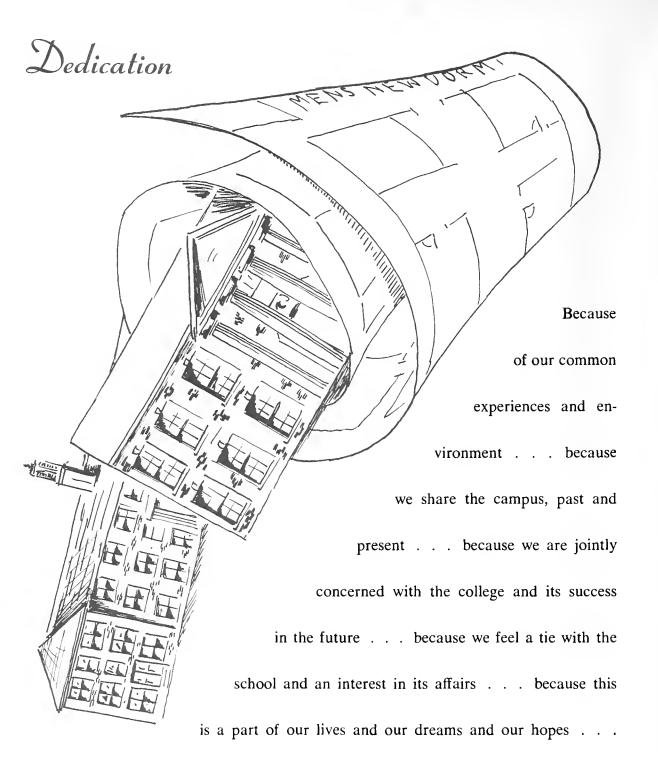

It is the end result of the deeper emotions and ideals of an individual which tends to link him with someone or something. It is usually quiet, devoted, and in most cases, lasting. It is a wondrous thing, especially so in these times of conflicting social forces.

Each of us is loyal to something: church, country, family, friends, or self. Loyalty grows with us and binds us with invisible strands to the people and institutions we meet along life's way.

Certainly, no one can leave the college of his choice without taking a part of it with him and leaving a part of himself behind, no matter how small. And no matter how far removed we may become in time or space those parts remain and are nurtured.

We chose Elizabethtown College, and the College chose us. Let us hope that both parties show a fair profit from their association.

because we are loyal to the same place, the same principles, the same institutions, the same songs and cheers and dreams . . . because of this . . . we dedicate this yearbook to you, alumni and friends of Elizabethtown.

Trustees

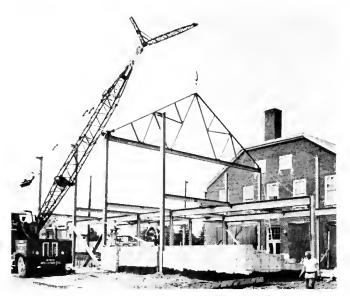

IN THE BASIC policies and plans of Elizabethtown College, the board of trustees is the guiding hand. From the first class of six students in 1900 to the present student body of nearly six hundred, the trustees have formed and shaped the fundamental principles of college action.

Trustees also have the duty of seeing that the policies of the school today conform to the original wishes of the founders. They must be concerned with the aligning of present decisions with those set up in the charter while keeping in mind a concept of progress suitable for changing times.

Especially in the growth and development of the college, both as a campus and as people, the trustees must draw up the final plans, arrange and organize the procedures, and coordinate all projects in connection with expansion. For the past few years, while the ten-year development plan has been in operation, the duties of the trustees have been manifold.

Trustees bring honor to a college; they determine its standing among people who know a college only through its policy-making body. A trustee must view a problem from all angles—that of filling the practical financial and material needs of the college, that of upholding the ideals expressed in the college motto. "educate for service."

First Stages. . . . The ground broken and foundation laid, the new wing for the Gibble Memorial Science Building starts on the long road toward completion in the summer of '57.

Taking Shape. . . . Its steel skeleton in place, the new science wing slowly takes form as the brick walls begin to rise during the fall. The original building stands in the background.

Development

FACED WITH the growing needs of an ever-expanding student body, Elizabethtown College moved to stay in tune with the times by launching a million dollar Development Program in July, 1954.

The goal for the first three-year phase of the program was set at $350,000. The end of the first phase, June 30, 1957, saw this goal reached and surpassed as alumni and friends of the college responded willingly and generously to Elizabethtown's forwardlooking venture.

In January, 1957, the first tangible result of the Development Program was completed with the erection of a three-story women's residence hall providing living facilities for 130 women and dining room accommodations for 350 students at one seating.

Ground was broken on Commencement Day, 1957, for the West Wing addition to the Science Building. The building was completed during the spring of 1958. The facilities provided in this building have doubled our laboratory space for biology, chemistry, and physics. It contains two classrooms seating 50 and 30 respectively, a large lecture room with a 200 student capacity, and offices for the staffs in science and mathematics. There is also a conference-seminar room which provides library space for reference literature in science.

The half-way mark has been reached in contributions and pledges toward the million dollar campaign goal. This aid has been given by alumni, friends of the college, and industry. Efforts have also been made to encourage the Churches of Eastern and Southern Penna. to place the college in their annual budget giving.

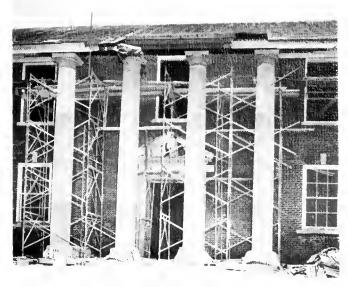

Because of the rapid growth of Elizabethtown College it is urgent that we have a new dormitory for 200 men and a student union building to provide for the health and recreational needs of our students.

Program

The facilities that would be provided in the student union building are: a college store, a cafeteria, study rooms, a lounge, shower rooms, and locker space, as well as some recreational facilities.

Because of the obtainable facilities of a student union building, the facilities to be provided in the field house can possibly be limited to a basketball floor with spectator space. This is especially true if the student union building can be in close proximity.

Thus our development program moves forward to keep in pace with the constantly increasing enrollment. The decisions of the Board of Trustees Committee on Building and Grounds and the amount of financial support which the college receives will determine the rapidity of future expansion.

End In Sight. . . . The four columns around the main entrance of the building were in place early in '58. With the roof in place, work on the inside progressed rapidly.

Administration and Faculty

"I consider a human soul without education like marble in the quarry, which shows none of its inherent beauties till the skill of the polisher fetches out the colours, makes the surface shine, and discovers every ornamental cloud, spot, and vein that runs through the body of it."

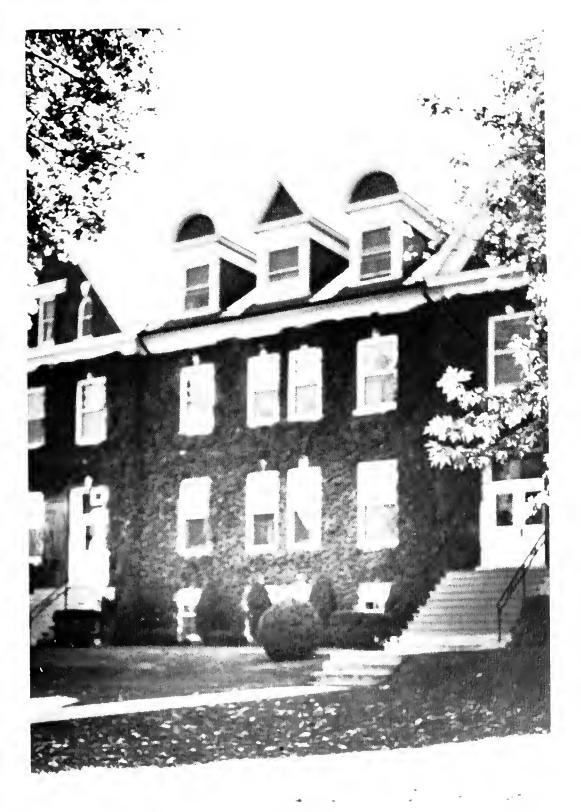

—Joseph Addison

Our lives are shaped and "polished" by many people we encounter along life's way. However, our teachers—from first grade through college—must be ranked among the most important molders of our personalities.

We may forget some of them but never all of them because they have imparted a light that can never be completely extinguished, no matter how much life may buffet us.

They have helped us to develop that something which will henceforth influence our every decision: our education.

As Addison said, they have "fetched out the colours."

IN DAILY contacts with the student body, the administration implements the policy of the college on campus. These men deal with the problems that arise in the college family in the routine of a school year. Through all diversified and unique difficulties they keep the wheels of administration running smoothly. With a personal approach to their work and a close association with all functions of the college, they play an important part in the success of the institution.

To us, faculty members came to be more than a voice in front of a lecture room during our stay at Elizabethtown. They became real people possessed of the various strengths and weaknesses that go into the molding of a human personality. We remember their all-too-human foibles, their respective humors, their pet phrases. We recall how they impressed us when first we met them in the classroom and how those impressions softened into real friendships in many cases as time went on.

But, in the final analysis, it is the knowledge imparted by these people and their colleagues that broadened our outlook during our years at college. For this reason, if for no other, these prof's will be remembered. Our faculty gave us our education in exchange for our time, money, and effort. They played a significant part in our development, helped us mold values, gave us the means to make a better place in society and to make society better for all. This is their biggest gift.

"Education should be as gradual as the moonrise, perceptible not in progress but in result."

---George John Whyte-Melville

Those of us who are leaving the campus do so with the feeling that our graduation is both an end and a beginning. It is the end of our studies here at Elizabethtown and the beginning of our post-graduate studies in the great school of life.

If we've learned nothing else here, we've come to appreciate the fact that education has no ending, merely milestones that mark our progress in giving service to our fellow men.

Our work at Elizabethtown is, or should be, a preparation for service to others in whatever field we may enter. This is our challenge and our solemn obligation.

We leave knowing each of us has something to give. May we give faithfully and cheerfully.

"WE HAIL thee Alma Mater Dear," were the words Professor Fisher drilled into our 165 timid freshmen minds four years ago. "Know these words! Memorize your Rudder! Respect those upperclassmen, especially those learned sophomores," we were told. However, the fun-packed freshman week overshadowed the brain-washing tests, grueling drills and constant warnings.

Our Alma Mater has since become a part of us as have our philosophy, math, English, history and science courses. Also to remain a part of us are the four years filled with hard work, rich experiences, and fun.

At the end of our freshman year one of our English professors left and took Zigfried with him. Having psycho-analyzed all of us E-town students, one of our favorite psychology profs decided to look for more subjects in Florida.

We can remember when any vehicle could be brought on campus without being registered. It didn't matter then where you parked—one small vehicle was even in the chapel building. And we can recall having to check our seating assignment for the dining hall in Alpha.

The new Women's Residence took away our orchard and the many between-meal snacks, but gave us enjoyable living quarters. We watched the progress of the science building extension our senior year.

It is difficult to reminisce and remember all the highlights of four unforgettable years. Remember the little Scout House on Friday nights; the nights the soccer team would return victorious and serenade the campus; the thrill of pride when our basketball team scored 100 points or more?

Homecoming and May Day were always big events in our lives. We worked for days on those "Welcome Back Alumni" displays seeking to win first prize. It was in our senior year that we set the precedent of chosing a Homecoming Queen from representatives of each class.

Class Officers

SEPTEMBER, 1957, and our third year at Elizabethtown College had begun. Many of our friends who bore the trials and torture of Freshman Initiation with us two years ago are no longer students at E-Town. The preparation for their chosen vocations had been completed, and they are now engaging in the occupation of their choice. Medical secretaries, stenographers, and medical technicians are a few of the professions entered by our old classmates. Those of us who were still struggling through the pains and anxiety of formal education strive anew to attain higher standards of progress in our training and intellectual growth.

We met many new faculty members during those first few weeks of our junior year: Mrs. Edith Fellenbaum, instructor in Education; Dr. James M. Berkebile, professor of Chemistry; Armon Snowden, instructor in Bible and Philosophy; Prof. Warren Holland, of the Business Dept.; Dr. Louise Kelly, associate professor of English; Dr. Carlton O. Wittlinger, professor of History; Prof. Bruce Tyndall, Mathematics Department; J. Atlee Young, organ instructor; James L. M. Yeingst, director of Public Relations.

Renovations and changes in housing, classroom, and office facilities were evident to students. Memorial Hall had been converted back into a women's residence, the entire basement of Alpha Hall had been revamped to provide several administrative and faculty offices and two classrooms, and the book store had been changed for a more effective arrangement.

RALPH S. BAKER Hudson, N. Y.

CLARA L. BARRETT Norfolk, Va.

The first task before us was the Junior English Competency Exam, which was designed to examine our knowledge of the basic mechanics of English. Then most of us embarked upon a year's study of U.S. History regardless of our major field. Accounting, chemistry, education, literature, and Bible courses occupied our time.

James H. Booth Mount Joy, Pa.

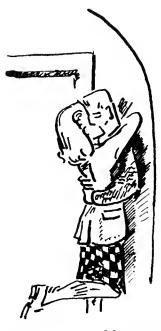

Kenneth L. Bowers Landisville, Pa.

WILLIAM E. BRENNEMAN MADELINE E. BRIGHTBILL York, Pa. Gloucester, N. J.

However, there always remained some spare moments for the extra-curricular activities, which hold many happy memories for those who participated in them. The talent of the junior class "bloomed forth" in sports, music, and drama, and their leadership could be detected in all phases of campus life.

The class was led by President Robert Miller, Vice-President Ronald Varner, Secretary Mary Jean Espenshade, and Treasurer Morton Feder.

The Blue Jay basketball team was strengthened by Kent Replogle, Jack Hedrick, and Ed Geiger from the junior class. Carl Zeigler and Jack Reed represented the class on the cross country team, while Dave Anwyll, Charles Weaver, and Terry Bush engaged in intercollegiate wrestling.

The tennis team claimed the talents of Kent Replogle and Jerry Garland, while Gene Wise and Larry Reber booted the soccer ball, helping to bring consistent wins to Dean Greene's team. Gene Wise and Jack Reed returned to the baseball diamond when spring weather hit the campus.

The junior girls were also represented in E-Town's sports program. Field hockey held the interest of Catherine Weaver, Joan Rigler, Jean Anne Rogers, Jeanette Risser, Nancy Kurtz, Ruth Ann Arnold, Diana Leister, and Margaret Haines. Miss Risser's Jaygal cagers included Jeanette Risser, Jean Anne Rogers, Joan Rigler and Phyllis Moser. Jean Anne Rogers helped the cheerleading squad in their attempts to aid the college teams to victory.

Membership in Varsity "E" Club had been awarded to Glenn Crum, Carl Zeigler, Jean Anne Rogers, Jeanette Risser, and Charles Weaver. The Women's Athletic Association claimed Yvonne Cosner, Ruby Sykes, Mary Jean Espenshade, Ruth Ann Arnold, Marguerite Brown, Jean Anne Rogers, Patricia Nase, Marjorie Price, and Jeanette Risser.

Musical talent was shown by the membership of juniors in College Choir, chorus, and quartet. Members of the Choir included Liga Grinbergs, Betsy Lohr, Marjorie Price, George Smith, Edward Schopf, Donald Knaub, and Charles Weaver. Chosen for the chorus were Charles Weaver, John Engle, Diana Leister, Helen Ober, Martha Dunmire, Betsy Lohr, Patricia Nase, and Marjorie Price. Charles Weaver was selected as a member of the 1957-58 male quartet. Orchestra members were Diana Leister and Martha Dunmire.

Drama interested many members of the junior class. "A Roomful of Roses," the Sock and Buskin fall production, had Sara Cooper, Donald Knaub, and Ed Schopf as cast members. A Christmas play, "Once to Every Man," written by Mrs. Enterline, included Joyce Shaffner and Donald Monn in the cast, and committee members for the production were Beverly Jerrell, Arthur Lawton, Donald Knaub, Jeanette Risser, Orrie Feitsma, and Madeline Brightbill. Sock and Buskin membership was awarded to Donald Knaub and George Smith.

The college publications occupied the spare time of junior journalists. The ETOWN-IAN staff included Ken Bowers, sports editor; Ronald Varner, circulation manager; Clara Barrett, Mary Jean Espenshade, and Beverly Styer. Working on the CONESTOGAN were Kenneth Bowers, Mary Jean Espenshade, Beverly Jerrell, Clara Barrett, Marguerite Brown, Peggy Hostetter, and Beverly Styer.

Donald Knaub led the year's program of C.B.Y.F. as president. Marjorie Price, secretary-treasurer, Yvonne Cosner, Diana Leister, Jerry Garland, Betsy Lohr, Charles Weaver, and Nancy Kurtz were active participants. Maynard Grunstra served as vice-president of S.C.A., and Betsy Lohr, as secretary, for 1957-58. L.S.A. members were Daniel Brensinger, Glenn Crum, Ruth Ann Arnold, Patricia Nase, Margaret Brown, and Bruce Slaybaugh. S.E.A.P. secretary was Ruth Varner.

Dorm proctors for the year were Jack Hedrick, Larry Reber, Kent Replogle, Maynard Grunstra, Harold Pomroy, and Ralph Baker. Ruth Varner was head of Memorial Hall, and Betsy Lohr was assistant Alpha Hall resident head. Marjorie Price was elected Alpha Hall dorm president.

Lab assistants included Jack Hedrick, chemistry; Larry Reber, physics; and James Booth, assistant instructor in engineering drawing and descriptive geometry.

Martha Dunmire helped the sick as 1957-58 school nurse. Her busy season was during the flu epidemic which hit E-Town in October.

High academic achievement was attained by juniors on The Dean's List: Edward Appel, John Engle, Maynard Grunstra, Jack Hedrick, Donald Monn, Jane Moseman, Yvonne Mowrey, Larry Reber, Ruth Varner, and Catherine Weaver.

February elections gave the Student Senate presidency for 1958-59 to Jack Hedrick. Members of the May Court selected by the class were Phyllis Moser and Jeanette Risser.

The class initiated a new project which was appreciated by many faculty members and students: the sending of cards and flowers to those who were ill. Madeline Brightbill headed this committee.

The big project for the junior class was the variety show, "Ship Ahoy," held March 14 and 15. The director, Arthur Lawton, and assistant director Jerry Garland spent many hours preparing the program with the aid of Mrs. Enterline, faculty advisor. Other committee members were Phyllis Moser, Liga Grinbergs, Ruth Varner, Clara Barrett, Jeanette Risser, Mary Jean Espenshade, and Jean Ann Rogers.

Climaxing the year's activities was the Junior-Senior Banquet, held at Hershey Park

Golf Club May 17 with Prof. Gray as guest speaker. Juniors planning the event were Marshall Pomroy, chairman, Betsy Lohr, Carolyn Schneider, Jean Anne Rogers, Kent Replogle, James Wingert, and Dick Markowitz.

We reflect upon the memories of our junior year and discover that it was filled with happiness and fun as well as much hard work and study. We looked forward to 1958-59 with much anticipation, when we would be the senior class of Elizabethtown College.

AH, YES, our sophomore year! And what an active, industrious year it was. It was a terrific feeling in September when we were recognized in the upper-classman status. Waiting until the end of September to put the freshman through their initiation was exasperating, and then to find it would be under the supervision of the Student Senate was even more distressing. But we managed to contribute our talents enough to rid ourselves of the feeling of revenge from our own freshman orientation.

Leading our 153 member group through this year, as in our freshman year was Fred Zimmerman, president. Assisting him were Barry Stevenson as vice president, Barbara Zimmerman as secretary, and Bill Adams as treasurer. Barry was also a representative in the Student Senate and Barbara was assistant secretary of the Senate.

On the academic side of college life we had the honor pressed on us to take the Survey of English Literature course, General Biology, "those Reuning history courses," and many others, depending on our individual curriculums.

Sophomores Judy Wallin and Pat Williams showed themselves to be patient chemistry laboratory assistants, while Ken Dieffenbach, Lee Miller, and Hank Osborn assisted in the biology laboratories. Working as library personnel were Ellen Gaines and Lois Zeigler.

Near the beginning of first semester sophomore Bill Adams was honored by an award for his outstanding achievement in mathematics during his freshman year.

But let's not dwell too long on the academic side when there are so many extracurricular activities to look back on.

Several sophomores were in the cast and committees of the November play, "Roomful of Roses." Dot Hyde, Jack Devereux, and Joyce Wenger showed their talents in the cast.

The first class activity was held December 6, when the Ice Follies was viewed at Hershey.

The week before Christmas vacation was packed full of activities for everyone, and the sophomores were on hand to enjoy and participate in all of them.

Then came that long-dreaded week of first-semester exams. We struggled and pulled through them, as we knew we would, but oh, the agony between the beginning and the end!

Homecoming Weekend, October 19, was a big success for us as sophomores. Our fellows downed the freshmen in the tug-ofwar contest over land rather than by sea this year. The cheering contest between the sophomore and freshman girls was also a class of '60 triumph. Then, in the evening, our own Sylvia Santee was declared the first Homecoming Queen during the "Our College Times" program in the auditoriumgymnasium. The other sophomore contestants were Joyce Wenger and Marty Reese. Dot Hyde was chairman of the registration committee for the weekend, and Jack Devereux and Bill Elston helped plan the evening program.

As second semester opened we lost a few students but gained others to make up for it. Joining us then were James Williard, Dale Kepner, Samuel Wenger, Roger Furman, and Gary Zimmerman.

Second semester was crammed with activities of all kinds: elections, basketball and baseball games, the six one-act plays, the Junior Variety Show, and May Day, to mention a few major ones. The elections in February and March were made exciting and suspenseful with many loyal, zealous sophomores running for offices. Our class was represented in the May court by two attractive day students, Faye Groff and Sidney Pegram.

The sports activities of the year were filled with sophomore participation. What would our soccer team have done without Bill Hoar, Fred Zimmerman, Bill Kendig, Hank Osborn, Bill Elston, and manager Jack Devereux?

Although we had only one sophomore on the men's basketball team, Jim Cullen. Bill Kendig and Charles Groff helped achieve victories for the wrestling and tennis teams, respectively.

We can never forget the Blue Jay (under which Hank Osborn nearly suffocated) which was initiated at the Hershey basketball game with Lebanon Valley. We also had three cheer-leaders to contribute to the morale boosting: Barbara Zimmerman, Carroll Hall, and Bonnie Merkle.

Phi Beta Chi was a club interest to Charlie Byers, Judy Wallin, Ken Dieffenbach, and Hank Osborn. The Political Science Club, with Lee Miller as vice-president, held the attention of Joyce Wenger, Bruce Tinglof, Robert Yohn, Dot Hyde, and Bill Kendig.

The language clubs on campus were also popular. German Club president Ken Dieffenbach and vice-president Judy Wallin, led the group which included sophomores Charlie Byers and Pat Williams. Ellen Gaines was vice-president of the French Club.

Dramatics, anyone? We're quite sure a good number of sophomores would answer to this call. Dot Hyde, secretary of Sock and Buskin, would do so. Then there's the Dramatic Workshop group, with Phil Reese as president and Bette Holman, Bruce Tinglof, Karl Kettering and Jack Devereux on the executive committee. Bill Elston and Joyce Wenger were also members of this new organization on campus.

Nineteen girls from our class finished their courses of study in May, and we're sorry to see them leave. Although Faye Groff, Jeanne Matthews, Lois Zeigler, and Ruth Zeigler may be back next year, the rest will begoing out into new types of living.

Class Officers

"I'M A LONELY little frosh in an onion patch . . "—that's how we all felt the first few weeks. Some of us had never seen the campus of good old E-town before September 8. Some of us were slightly familiar with the setting. But none of us felt quite at home. We liked the idea of college, and we knew we would like Elizabethtown, but we just didn't belong—yet.

That's when we got a surprise. The administration, the Student Senate, the Committees on Men's and Women's Affairs, and many other organizations took pity on the bewildered freshmen and tried to make us feel at home by giving teas where we got acquainted with our classmates and the faculty, by sponsoring games, hikes, and talks to help us get to know the school.

For most of us, too, there was the exciting experience of meeting a roommate. We spent hours listening to talk of home, high-school friends, and ambitions. There was so much to tell we often sat up late at night. Talking about our families seemed, in a way, to ease the ache of homesickness that was growing in some of us. We thanked the school for keeping us too busy to dwell on being lonesome.

Registration was a new experience for us, too. We learned to stand patiently (?) in line, talking to those around us about courses and classes, 7:40's and 3:05's, the bane of our days. And with the onset of classes we began once more to enjoy working toward a goal.

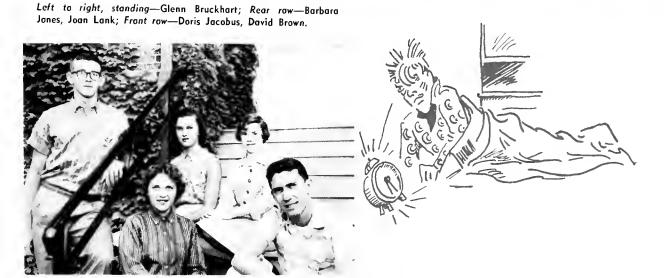

All these shared activities brought us closer together. We had common bonds, the Alpha girls, and the chem majors. We recognized a few of our fellow students.

Just as we had established a routine, however, we were faced with a grueling experience—freshman initiation week! Starting with an assembly where we received instructions as to our behavior and habits, this week soon became one of alternating despair and laughter. Name signs and dinks weren't enough; we had to wear pajamas or backwards clothes and carry toothpicks, matches and—of all things—onions! Our daily meetings were looked upon with terror as we were harangued by members of the F.I.C.

Such tortures as policing the campus with wastebaskets at six o'clock in the morning were faced, although we complained as much as possible. Some of us felt that we could not live through the week, but we finally agreed that we, as freshmen, would show that committee of "exalted upperclassmen" that we could endure whatever they did. And when they let us burn our signs on Thursday night, we decided that they weren't so bad, after all.

Although we didn't enjoy this experience, still we realized (later, of course) that it had served a good purpose: it had made the freshmen class a unit. We had all undergone the initiation; we were fellow-sufferers. And the upperclassmen told us we weren't frosh any more; we were students.

Still wearing our dinks, we began to prepare for Homecoming weekend when we were to prove our honor by defeating the sophomores in the tug-of-war. How we gloated—beforehand. But the sophomores won, and we were humiliated. Three of our class were attendants in the Homecoming court at the annual dance. These girls were Judy Eby, Elizabeth Forrer, and Mara Znotens.

About this time we had become accustomed enough to our regular routine that we could think of joining clubs and participating in activities. Many of us joined the all-college chorus. Kathy Bowman, Douglas Cromer, Charles Denlinger, Robert Heffley, Ralph Johnson, Mary Frances Johnstone, Henrietta Kohr, Kenneth Kreider, Joan Leatherman, James Lineweaver, Sandra Reifsteck, Lynne Roudabush, Joseph Wagenseller, Kathleen Wisegarver, and Galen Young were chosen for the choir.

We belonged to SCA, WAA, SEAP, and CBYF. We were well-represented in sports, both girls' and boys'. Henrietta Kohr and Robert Heffly achieved membership in the smaller singing groups, the women's double trio and the men's quartet. Ruth Risser was selected as a varsity cheerleader, while Margie Kernen cheered for the jayvees. Janice Ferster and Joan Lank worked on the E-Townian staff.

We soon elected class officers: Galen Young, president; Martin Hefferan, vice-president; Elizabeth Forrer, secretary; and Philip Erb, treasurer. We put our trust in these people to lead us for the rest of the year.

"Room Full of Roses," the fall play, attracted two of our girls, Kathy Bowman and Sandra Lutz.

By now we had also attended schoolsponsored activities such as the dances and scruffs, the movies and campfires. These brought us closer to "dear old E-Town" and our fellow students.

Soon we had become a part of the college; we felt proud to stand and sing our Alma Mater. As we learned we began to grow and to realize our growth. The first semester was one of maturing minds and spirits by contact with other people.

With the beginning of December, all of us got the Christmas spirit. Decorations appeared in the dorms, and plans were under way for parties and celebrations. Of course, one of the main attractions was the Christmas Dance at Hershey. We enjoyed the decorations, the setting, the food, the music, and certainly, the people we were with.

Too soon it was time to go home, but we were glad for the rest from a busy college schedule. "Sleep—that's what I'll do all vacation," we vowed. And we kept our vows. We returned relaxed and ready for the last few weeks before a dreaded time—exams.

Some of us came from schools where there were no finals, some from places with exemptions for good grades, and some from schools where everyone took exams. However, we looked to our first college exams with the same thought—could we do our best for the sake of those who wanted to be proud of us?

Tensions in the dorm rose as exam-time neared. Study hours grew longer. Tempers grew shorter. During the exam days themselves everyone seemed exhausted, and no one had time for anything but studying for and taking tests. We agreed finally that the exams were harder than those of high school, but no worse than our courses had made us expect. Some of us were pleased and some disappointed when grades came out. All of us resolved to get to work and study hard during the second semester.

The first night after our semester break, the freshmen held a class hobo party. While not too many of our class attended the party, all who did enjoyed it immensely. Kathy Wisegarver and Helmut Baer were chosen the most "hoboish hoboes."

Now we really felt we belonged to the school. We were well acquainted with our own classmates and with the upperclassmen. Our class was organized and functioning well.

About the middle of February we elected two girls to serve as attendants to the May Queen. This honor was awarded to Janice Ferster and Mara Znotens.

Valentine's Day brought the annual Sweetheart Dance at Hershey. Again we appreciated the time and thought put into the plans for our enjoyment.

With the second semester well on its way we settled down to work in earnest. Our study schedules became more efficient as we were given more privileges to enjoy. The girls now had a new experience, nights out once every two weeks.

Our planning committee set up several class-sponsored activities through the semester, among them a skating party in April which was open to the entire school.

Late in the spring we went to Hershey Park for the all-college picnic. As freshmen, we took charge of the entertainment. This was an exciting project and we felt that the school enjoyed the results.

Altogether this, our freshman year, has been a time of growth and broadening of hearts as well as minds. We have gained a knowledge of how to cooperate and work happily with others. We have lived a full year in Elizabethtown, and we look forward with eagerness to our future years. It can be truly said of us, "We love thee, Alma Mater dear."

Student Activities

"A university should be a place of light, of liberty, and of learning."

—Benjamin Disraeli

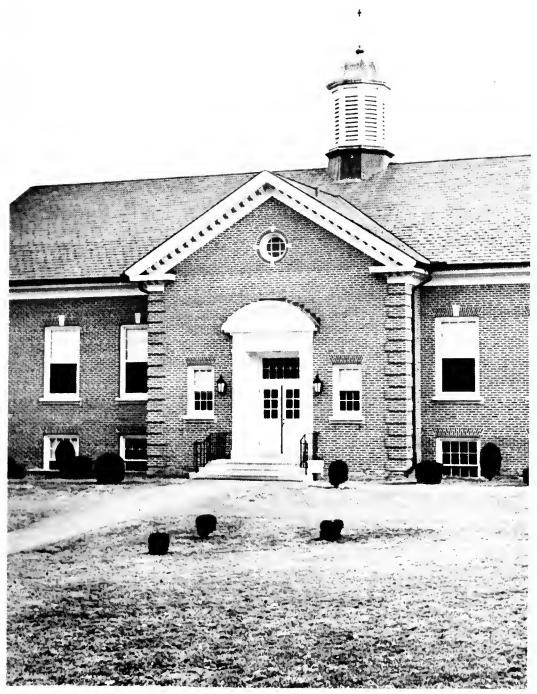

There are many things we carry with us when we leave the campus of Elizabethtown that were not gleaned from textbooks nor noted from the lectures of our professors.

These are the intangibles of a college education, those unseen things which have somehow imbedded themselves in our personalities during our stay on campus. In some respects, they are more valuable than the "book learning" we received.

Few of us will not admit that we are somehow different than when we first came here. One might call it a broadening of our perspectives that allows us to look on the world with keener insight.

The environment of our campus, the people we've met, the experiences we've shared, and the work we've accomplished are all part of this broadening process.

And, though we leave, the influence of our experiences here will always remain. It cannot be otherwise.

Student Government

THE INCREASED complexity of college activities has made the function of student government an important and integral part of Elizabethtown College life.

To meet the multiplying needs and problems of a growing student body, the Student Senate and Committees on Men's and Women's Affairs have, in closer cooperation with the Administration, increased their endeavor to more fully represent the student body.

Greater strides have been made in expanding and widening the social and recreational program of the college. The student body has responded to this effort by an interested and increased participation.

The Student Senate increased its responsibilities by carrying out the freshman orientation program and by taking a greater part in Homecoming and May Day activities. A solution to the parking problem was put forward. And, in order to maintain a more democratic spirit, Student Senate meetings were opened to the student body.

The Committee on Women's Affairs meets in the New Residence Lounge. The members ore Deloris Balze, Jacqueline Horris, Esther H. Weddle, Yvonne Brubaker, Ruth Vorner, and Betsy Lohr.

Athletic Organizations

THE WOMEN'S Athletic Association boasted of 81 active members in the 1957-58 college year.

Jean Anne Rogers headed the club, which included varsity, junior varsity and intramural participants, with Carroll Hall as Vice-President, Lois Tintle, Secretary, and Deloris Bolze, Treasurer. Representing the freshmen was Judy Eby.

Phyllis Moser chairmaned the intramural program, which included hockey, tennis, table tennis, bowling, badminton, basketball, softball and archery.

The social activities were planned by Katherine Weaver and included an ice skating party, swimming party, and horseback riding trip.

Women Athletes . . . Officers of the WAA check ways to boost the relatively new organization. They are (from left) Carroll Hall, Phyllis Moser, Jean Anne Rogers, Lois Tintle, Judith Eby, Catherine Weaver, and Deloris Balze.

THE VARSITY "E" Club is a group composed of students who have been awarded a letter in varsity athletic competition.

Members of the group operated refreshment stands and sponsored the sale of programs at home sporting events. This year chrysanthemums were sold by the club on Homecoming Day.

Etownian

Ken Bowers, sports editor of both Conestogan and Etawnian, and his staff seek sports material for the Etawnian. Tam Lighthiser and Mary Jean Espenshade comprise thesports staff.

Fresher news with more editions was the chief characteristic of the 1957-58 ETOWN-IAN. Semi-monthly, four page editions were published so that better news coverage could be given.

Hoping to better the 1956-57 ETOWNIAN'S first class rating, published as an eight page monthly, this year's paper added such features as Tinglof's cartoons, a Know Your Trustee column, faculty and library news columns, and a Letter to the Editor series. Pictures of the new science building addition were printed as the construction progressed.

A large staff of reporters helped to ease the work load of Robert Balthaser, editor-inchief, and the other editors.

PICTURES, write-ups, proofing, pasting! These are the familiar duties which once again faced the CONESTOGAN staff. But a new year, new faces, new buildings, and new events added freshness and more interest to the job of compiling this year's events of our college life.

From September to June each one of us participates in not only classroom discussions but also in clubs, sports, and various other extra-curricular activities. We meet people whom we will unintentionally, but undoubtedly, forget. It is the hope of the Conestogan staff that, in this yearbook, we have captured those moments which you want to remember and have compiled a record which may recall to your memory those people and events which you had temporarily forgotten.

Association

S.C.A. officers John Ronck, treasurer; Betsy Lahr, secretary; Amos Cunningham, president, meet with advisor Prof. Robert Byerly. Missing from the picture is Maynord Grunstra, vice-president.

THE STUDENT Christian Association endeavors to give students an opportunity to broaden their social concern. Discussions, lectures, films, inter-collegiate programs, and practical experience are combined to guide the member toward spiritual maturity.

The SCA has sponsored a Sunday evening service on campus for students and a play which was given in churches around the community, to name a few areas of experience. The party for the Orphan's Home at Neffsville, the Christmas caroling, and World University Service drive, and the Wednesday evening meetings have all become tradition to those familiar with SCA. Bringing forth undiscovered leadership abilities is the unwritten byword of the group.

The local LSA is a member of the North Atlantic Region of the Lutheran Student Association of America. Each year members of the Elizabethtown group attend a regional convention at Buck Hill Falls in the Pocono Mountains.

Officers this year were: Claire Boyd, president; Elsa Hoener, vice-president; Ruth Ann Arnold, secretary-treasurer.

Joyce Wenger was elected president of the LSA organizations of the Gettysburg area at a convention held at Shippensburg in December.

LEARNING MORE about the heritage of their church and discussing current church problems are some of the activities of the Church of the Brethren Youth Fellowship.

The BSCM conference was the high point of the year. Representatives from the seven Brethren colleges meet for fellowship and active exchange of ideas. The meeting this year was presided by an Elizabethtown student, Kent Replogle.

THE NEED for full-time dedicated Christian workers is greater than ever. While most of the members of the Eta Gamma are preministerial students, the group welcomes all male students interested in Christian education.

Provocative talks by ministers, experience in the pulpit of college deputation teams, field trips to synagogues, seminaries, and cathedrals constitute the inspiring activities encountered during the year.

THE COLLEGE through its service, has become an indispensable part of our college. The choir is made up of about 40 select voices under the direction of Nevin W. Fisher with J. Atlee Young accompanying them.

There are two main functions of the College Choir, to sing in Chapel services and to sing in various area functions. Aside from these important activities it can be found helping in numerous activities around the campus. For example, it participated as a part of the large College Chorus in the Christmas program "The Redemption." Other activities of the choir included participation in the Junior Show and an operetta with two performances.

The choir also participated in a sacred concert touring different parts of Pennsylvania.

Most of the first semester was spent on practice, which is long hard work for both the choir members and the director. However, we assured them by our appreciation how worthwhile their earnest efforts had been. The College Choir will always remain one of the key sources of pride for Elizabethtown College.

FIELD TRIPS, movies, and speakers took up the monthly meetings and outside time of members of Phi Beta Chi this year.

The campus science club, with its 20 members, enjoyed field trips which included deep-sea fishing, observation of inventions by da Vinci at Lebanon Valley College, and tours to Tidewater Oil and du Pont companies in Wilmington, Delaware.

Professors Custer and Tyndall advised the organization, and Philip Seese led it as president.

FORMERLY the Future Teachers of America, the Student Education Association of Pennsylvania now includes in its membership not only future teachers but also those with interest in education. Its new name helps to differentiate it from the high school organization, which still retains the name F.T.A.

The main project of the club was working toward the permanent establishment of a tentative plan, whereby students other than seniors will have a chance to observe in actual classroom situations.

SOCK AND BUSKIN fills the top of the dramatic ladder at E-town. Its members come from play production class, speech class, and interested students. This year the club sponsored two initiations for prospective members.

In the first, dictated by Ed Ankeny, the neophytes advertised a "Roomful of Roses" by dressing as characters from the play. Following this the club and the music department worked together to portray the Christmas story titled "Once to Every Man."

In February the grease paint crew and Mrs. Enterline, advisor, explained make-up and lighting techniques to high school and college students.

Ruth Ann Yeager piloted the second initiation and pushed the new members into a sea of initiation oddities. In spring the everpresent stage crews began setting up scenery for the six one act plays, while painters splashed color on flats.

Formed last year, the Dramatic Workshop is the newest addition to the club roster. Guided by Phil Seese, the group supplied members of play casts and back stage crews. Its objectives are to further an interest in dramatics and provide a stepping stone to Sock and Buskin.

Political Science Club

STUDENTS interested in parliamentary procedure, debating and current events gained valuable, practical experience in the Political Science Club.

In preparation for a regional meeting at Gettysburg and the state Intercollegiate Conference on Government held at Harrisburg, the club members went through the process of drafting original legislative bills. Then together with delegates representing over 50 Pennsylvania colleges and universities they manuevered to have their bills brought out of committee meetings and adopted by the assembly.

Officers of the group were: James Panne-baker, president; Lee Miller, vice-president; Joyce Schaffner, secretary-treasurer; Curtis Reiber, ICG chairman, and Dorothy Hyde, parliamentarian. Dr. Wilhelm Reuning is adviser to the club.

Grantland Rice, sportswriter by profession, wove a great deal of philosophy into his writings.

He was a man who knew the minds of athletes. He understood their craving for competition, their will to win, their disappointment in defeat.

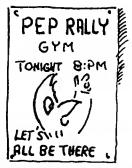

Athletics form a prime segment of college life. Our athletic teams were a rallying point around which the students, faculty, and friends of the college could gather and support. To many people off campus, our athletic teams were the only representatives of the college they knew.

These people have served their college well while rounding out their individual personalities through the stern personal discipline and training required by their respective sport.

ELIZABETHTOWN COLLEGE moved toward the upper echelon of soccer powers in the eastern United States this season by rolling up eight victories in ten starts, the most successful record since the college took up the sport 18 years ago.

Coached by Paul Greene, dean of men and professor of history and sociology, the Blue Jays lost only to West Chester and Drexel, both perennial soccer powers. Both losses were one-goal decisions, and in both the Jays led at the half-way point.

Over the season they piled up 33 goals and allowed 16 in defeating Howard, Wilkes, LaSalle, Gettysburg, Lycoming, Lincoln, Bucknell, and East Stroudsburg. Elizabethtown was the only club to dump Gettysburg, Record— Eight wins, two losses trimming the Bullets 3-2 at E-town on Homecoming Day.

Leading scorers for the Blue and Gray were Bill Hoar and Carroll Hershey, who pushed through 11 and seven goals in that order. Other top scorers were Fred Zimmerman and Warner Cheeks with six goals each.

Defensively, the Jays were led by George Gerlach and Earl Mellott, a pair of bruising fullbacks, and three fine halfbacks: Gene Wise, Jerry Reber, and Russ Glazier. Gene Bucher and Larry Reber braced the line and Lance Strayer was the goalie.

Coach Greene, who took over as soccer coach in 1953, has never suffered a losing year. His overall record, including the past season, is 25 wins, 13 defeats, and seven ties.

Goalie Lance Strayer makes one of countless number of saves during best saccer season in history of college.

FAST RUNNING, accurate passing, and quick judgement led the E-town Bluebirds to an outstanding season record of five wins and two losses. Adele Taschner headed the varsity by scoring one-third of the total goals, followed by Yvonne Brubaker and Kay Jones with four each. Goalie Kitty Weaver, aided by a strong defense, added three more shut-outs to the E-town record. Coach Julia Risser and Captain Jane MacNeal faced the task of re-scheduling and rearranging teams in a stiff battle against the flu bug which was present throughout the season.

However, spirits remained high and, four of the gals, Jane MacNeal, Kitty Weaver, Joan Rigler, and Nancy Kurtz captured honors at the Central Pennsylvania Tournament held at Wilson College in Chambersburg.

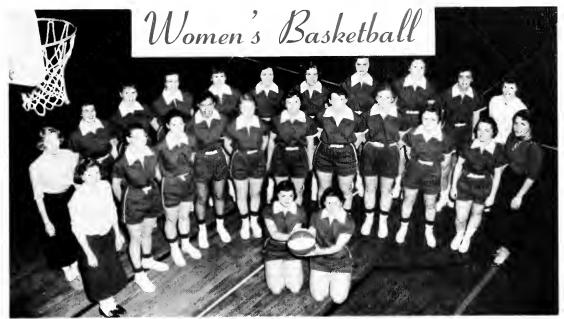

Although many had never participated in the sport previous to the 1957 season, the Junior-Varsity girls did a commendable job and attained a 1-1-2 record. Freshman, Judy Eby, tallied the E-town goals to lead the Jaygals to this record.

Coach Risser, in two previous seasons, had recorded marks of 7-4 and 8-2 making her present over all total an admirable 19 wins and 12 losses.

Considering that it was strictly a rebuilding season, the Jaygals need not apologize. Two freshmen, Forward Sandra Swann and Guard Ruth Tice did a standout job as

Record—Two wins, five losses

IN LIEU OF DEPTH and experience, Elizabethtown College's second cross country team ran through a seven meet schedule with two wins and five losses. Sparkling in spots, the Jays couldn't muster enough punch to win consistently.

In retrospect, Coach Ira Herr's charges fared well despite their losing record. Only one opponent, F. & M., defeated them by as much as six points (25-31). In addition to F. & M. they lost to Albright, Lincoln, Dickinson, and Juniata. They defeated Muhlenberg and Moravian.

Bernie Thome and Glen Bruckhart teamed up throughout the whole season with a brilliant display of running, one of them finishing either first or second in all of the Jay's meets. Helmut Baer, Don Shirk, and Carl Zeigler aided the Blue Jay cause.

Three of Herr's harriers, Thome, Baer, and Shirk, competed also in the Middle Atlantic States meet at St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia.

A HOST of injuries to an already thin squad spelled out a sub-par season of one win, eight losses, and one tie for Coach Richard Hershey and his Blue Jay wrestlers.

The matmen tied Lincoln in the opener, but thereafter a chain of countless misfortunes proved too much for the inexperienced Jays to cope with as they lost seven meets in succession. A 17-13 verdict over Lebanon Valley was the only triumph, and that preceded a meet with Lycoming that had to be cancelled due to injuries.

John Hollinger, however, added to his personal laurels with a mark of eight wins, no losses, and a draw. He accumulated 32 points in the unbeaten skein before being forced out of action with a knee injury. John wrapped up his illustrious career here with 102 points while allowing his opponents a meager 17 during the four years.

Bill Kendig was the second high point man for the year with 26.

Seniors John Hollinger, with crew cut, and Jay Greider are oll wrapped up in wrestling practice session.

FOR THE FIRST time in four seasons under Coach Don Smith the Blue Jay cagers found themselves on the short end of the season's log. They finished the year with nine victories and eleven defeats, a record that many Elizabethown fans found disappointing after three consecutive winning seasons. Smith's overall record here now is 56 wins and 33 losses.

The squad had more than its share of troubles during the campaign with a rash of crippling injuries to key players such as playmaking guard Jim Sarbaugh and center Jim Chase, the club's number two scorer and rebounder.

Chase and Sarbaugh were the only seniors on the team of five juniors and a fine crop of promising freshmen.

Statistically, Bill Pensyl, dominated the squad. Playing in all 20 games, he led the team in scoring (414 points) and rebounding (250). He connected on 149 of 356 field goal attempts and converted 116 of 167 foul tries.

As a team, the Blue Jays made 572 of 1,474 field goal attempts, an average of .388; and from the foul line they converted 337 of 507 tries for a .665 average. They scored a total of 1,481 points while allowing 1,515.

College

INTRAMURAL sports for both men and women saw a variety of action throughout the term despite limitations brought about by crowded facilities. The men participated through the sponsorship of the Student Senate Athletic Committee headed by Jim Chase while the women were directed by Phyllis Moser, the intramural chairman of the Women's Athletic Association.

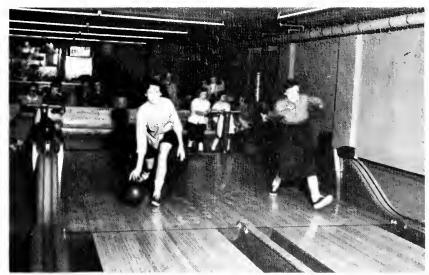

In the fall, four sports shared the spotlight as the women participated in field hockey, volleyball, and tennis. The men, at the same time, were active in touch football and tennis. Dee Bolze and Don Price captured the tennis titles in their respective tournaments as the Marvellettes copped the hockey league pennant, and the South Hall Steelers went undefeated in the football setup.

Also, the junior girls won a class tournament in field hockey, and later in the fall, Ken Kreider won honors in a men's chess tourney.

Rushing Spring. . . . Breaking out the bats and gloves, an ambitious trio gets set for intramural softball.

Fall Intramurals. . . . Six gridiron warriars line up for action in a touch football game on campus.

Intramurals

Bowling Belles. , . . Barbara Zimmerman (left) and Phyllis Ingram move up to fire a strike in the Women's Intramural Bowling League.

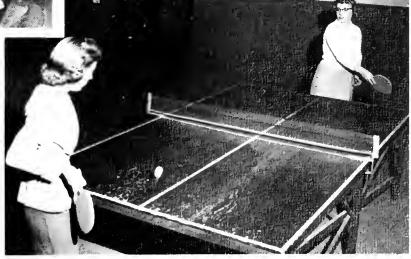

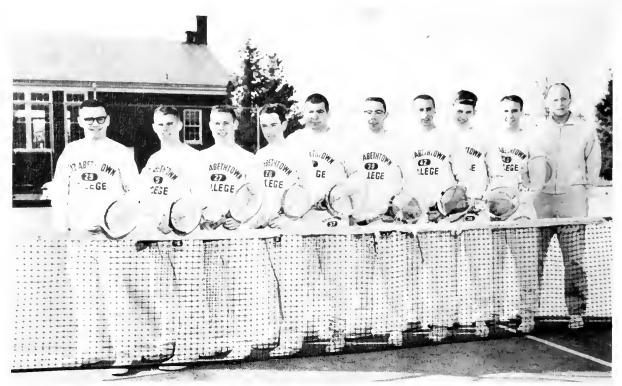

During the winter, both men and women competed in basketball leagues while Nancy Kurtz was cleaning up in a women's ping pong tournament and the Bouncy Bowlers were winning honors in a women's bowling league.

A mixed doubles tournament in badminton supplied 26 couples with entertainment in the spring as did softball leagues for both sexes.

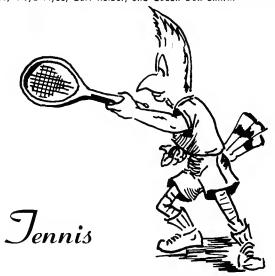

Court Action. . . . A quartet of Jaygals gather under the basket during intramural basketball play.

A NUCLEUS of four lettermen plus some freshmen talent comprised the bulk of Coach Don Smith's tennis squad. Kent Replogle, Don Price, John Smith, and Charles Groff, all previous letter winners, were the mainstays of the outfit.

The Jay racketmen faced a record high of 13 opponents this year including such newcomers as Franklin and Marshall and Lebanon Valley.

Baseball

IRA R. HERR moved into his 26th consecutive season as coach of the Blue Jay baseballers with the realization that graduation losses had dampened his squad's chances of repeating as Pennsylvania NAIA champions. Six returning starters, however, supplied the talent for another very respectable season.

Third Baseman Jim Sarbaugh, the top hitter for three successive seasons, was back in addition to Gene Wise, a standout centerfielder. Other returnees included pitchers Bruce Wohnseidler, Fred Zimmerman, Gene Bucher, and Glen Crum; catchers Don Witman and Jack Miller; infielders Lloyd Bortzfield and Phil Seese; and outfielders Al Barrick and Stan Miller.

Wohnseidler and Witman completed four successive campaigns as the chief battery for the outfit while another star pitcher, Sheldon Dent, had to sit out the year with a knee injury.

"I am sometimes inclined to think that if we bring together the right students with the right teachers in the right atmosphere we won't have to worry too much about what education is."

COURTNEY SMITH

Campus life is unlike any other type of living.

Here, in a very real sense, we are part of a community all our own. We live by established rules, face the same problems, share the same joys and disappointments, and carry with us the same memories when we leave.

Impressions of campus life will linger and come into sharp focus in our mind whenever we happen to refer back to our days at Elizabeth-town. Campus impressions are lasting within us: the early morning stirring in the dormitories, the hard-to-resist desire to skip that 7:40 class in favor of another hour of sleep, the familiar faces in the class-rooms and laboratories, the pleasant bustle of social life and extracurricular activities, the quiet solemnity of the campus at night brightened by the friendly lights of the dormitories, where concern for coming tests and desire for fun were in constant contention.

Ambition, achievement, success, frustration, worry, relaxation, fun, and maturity—all of these are ingredients in campus life, a unique and unrelivable period in our lives.

Ramon Somavia gains degree. Rev. Nevin Zuch adjusts hood.

Dr. Millard Gladfelter granted Doctor af Laws degree. Dr. Jay Eshelman adjusts hoad.

AMIDST the pomp and solemnity of an academic procession the college observed its 57th Charter Day Convocation September 20 by awarding three honorary degrees to representatives of the fields of education, music, and humane inventiveness.

Dr. Millard E. Gladfelter, provost of Temple University, delivered the convocation address before the assembled student body and faculty in the college auditorium. Prior to his address Dr. Gladfelter was granted the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters.

Convocation

Doctor of Music Degree to Conductor Edwin McArthur, Dr. N. F. Stump adjusts the haad.

Edwin McArthur, conductor of the St. Louis Opera and the Harrisburg Symphony Orchestra received the Doctor of Music degree, and Ramon Somavia, humanitarian and inventer from Hollister, Calif., was granted the Doctor of Humane Letters degree.

Dr. A. C. Baugher made the presentations.

Others taking part in the ceremonies were Dean Roy McAuley, Dr. N. F. Stump, Dr. David Young, Dr. O. F. Stambaugh, Dr. Irwin S. Hoffer, Dr. Jay H. Eshelman, and Dr. Nevin Zuch.

Formality Ended. . . . Faculty members and degree recipients congregate after Convocation exercises in the auditorium.

Welcome Alumni!

STROLLING about campus on Homecoming Day were the visiting alumni who, in loyalty, have returned to renew their acquaintance with their alma mater.

This year, two new features were added to the Homecoming Day program. The first was the selection of a homecoming queen from among the entire student body. The second new feature was a cheering section composed of freshmen and sophomore women in inter-class competition, during the annual tug of war.

The program for the day included registration, a field hockey game, the tug of war, a cafeteria lunch for alumni and friends, a soccer game, a cross country race, the women's auxiliary tea and bazaar, a cafeteria dinner, and the presentation "Our College Times" sponsored by the senior class in honor of the visiting alumni.

Seniors George Gerlach and Jane MacNeal enact roles of an alumnus reminiscing about the good old days.

Queenly Grace . . . Candidates for Homecoming Queen are served tea prior to meeting the judges.

Homecoming Fun. . . . Members of the sophomore cheering squad move in to cheer their class in the traditional tug-of-war. Sophs won.

Our May Court

THE CROWNING of the queen, baseball game, tennis matches, Science Hall tour and Phi Beta Chi exhibits, and the three-act play keep happy memories within us of Elizabethtown College's 12th Annual May Day.

Held Saturday, May 10, the program was full of enjoyment for everyone. The dell was again the scene for the court ceremonies, sponsored by the W.A.A. girls under Miss Julia Risser's direction. Queen Elizabeth Lefever made a most becoming picture as she was crowned. And the freshman girls in the traditional May Pole dance gave gay entertainment to the court and audience.

Following this we toured the Science Hall and watched the baseball game and tennis matches. The E-Town vs. Juniata baseball game couldn't be beat for excitement, and the tennis matches with Lebanon Valley College were just as breathless.

In the evening, after a delicious buffetstyle supper, we relaxed in the auditoriumgymnasium with a light-hearted play, sponsored by the Sock and Buskin Club.

The participation of so many students made the whole day even more complete, for our parents, friends, and ourselves as well.

Graduation

GRADUATION marked the end of four years of college activities for 100 members of the Senior Class. The traditional blackrobed academic procession wound over campus for the Baccalaureate Service and the following day degrees were granted at Commencement.

Honorary degrees were granted to Dr. Eric A. Walker, president of Pennsylvania State University; Rev. M. Richard Shaull, a graduate of Elizabethtown and a leader in the Presbyterian Church; Joseph W. Kettering, chairman of the college Board of Trustees; and Horace E. Raffensperger, publisher.

Dr. Walker made the Commencement address, and Rev. Shaull delivered the Baccalaureate sermon.

President A. C. Baugher presided during both services.

Light Refreshment. . . . Mrs. Ruth Miller Hollinger posses some between-classes refreshment to a couple of eager students.

Creative Art. . . . Posters adorn the orea near the college store during the student election campaigns.

Sophomores aptimistically flash victory signs prior to the annual tug-of-war with freshman class. They won, too!

Quiet Solemnity. . . . After a hectic day, residents of Alpha Hall relax and worship at vespers.

Religious Pursuits . . . Eldon Morehouse and Rev. Nevin Zuch, college pastor, look over a coming Bible study.

Chapel. . . . Students throng the Alumni Auditorium for a weekly Friday morning chapel service.

Organizing . . . The Women's Auxiliary of the College meet for their first formal arganizational session in the New Residence Hall.

Women's Auxiliary

Life Members. . . . New life members of the auxiliary meet in the New Residence. They are (from left) Mrs. Samuel Wenger, Rexmont; Mrs. Franklin Cassel, Lititz; Mrs. Harry Dorsheimer, Mrs. Jacob Fisher, and Mrs. Virginio Fisher, all of Elizabethtown.

Auxiliary Bargains. . . . Students check sale items offered during the Wamen's Auxiliary Homecoming Bazaar in the New Residence lounge.

Special Interest

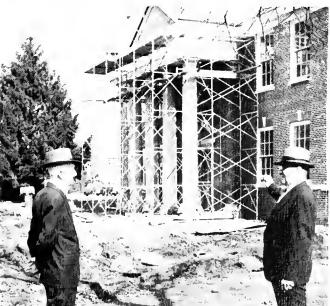

Registration . . . Richard Keller listens as Miss Engle, registrar, and Dean Roy McAuley discuss his semester's schedule.

Information. . . . Mrs. O. F. Stambaugh points out a point of interest to Sung Ho Hahm, Korean freshman.

Still Growing. . . . President Baugher (right) points out the development of the campus as Willis Heisey, Elizabethtown, looks on. Mr. Heisey is the sole surviving member of the first class of six students who enrolled in 1900.

Real Homey. . . . The end of "Roomful of Roses." Sara Cooper and Don Knaub look on while Sandie Lutz and Donald Hoover get ocquainted.

Advertisements

You can tell the ideals of a nation by its advertisements.
—Douglas

Advertising fills a great need in our society.

In many respects, advertisements may be considered the lubricant which keeps our capitalist society functioning by encouraging consumer spending and thereby boosting production.

The concerns who saw fit to place their messages in the ensuing pages did so in the knowledge that they were supporting a publication which can promise little in the way of sales promotion. Their contributions are evidence of their goodwill toward Elizabethtown College and those who read these pages.

It is from people of this type that Elizabethtown College has gained the support necessary for its growth and development over the years.
